Your wedding day, it's kind of a big deal...

What's important to you? The first thing I state to my wedding clients when I meet them is this, "At the end of the day, when your wedding is over, you are left with two things: a spouse and your wedding photos – and you better be happy with both!" From the time you start getting ready on your special day, to the first dance, I will capture the moments that you didn't even know were important to you.

"Words can't explain your work. Your work explains itself."

Trent Pawlick, groom - wedding September 2015

You Have Choices! *

This is Personal. When it comes to wedding photographers, you have many choices – that’s not lost on me. And it’s important that you are completely comfortable with your choice of photographer. This is one of the most personal and intimate days of your life, and the experience you have with your photographer, along with the images you receive, are of equal importance. I will help make your wedding day fun and as stress-free as possible. It’s all about you.

What’s going to work? Team work! I work with you to make your perfect wedding day vision a reality. We are a team, and you can count on me to provide professional service and advice when you need it. I am happy to answer any and all of your questions, any time – before, during and after your day!

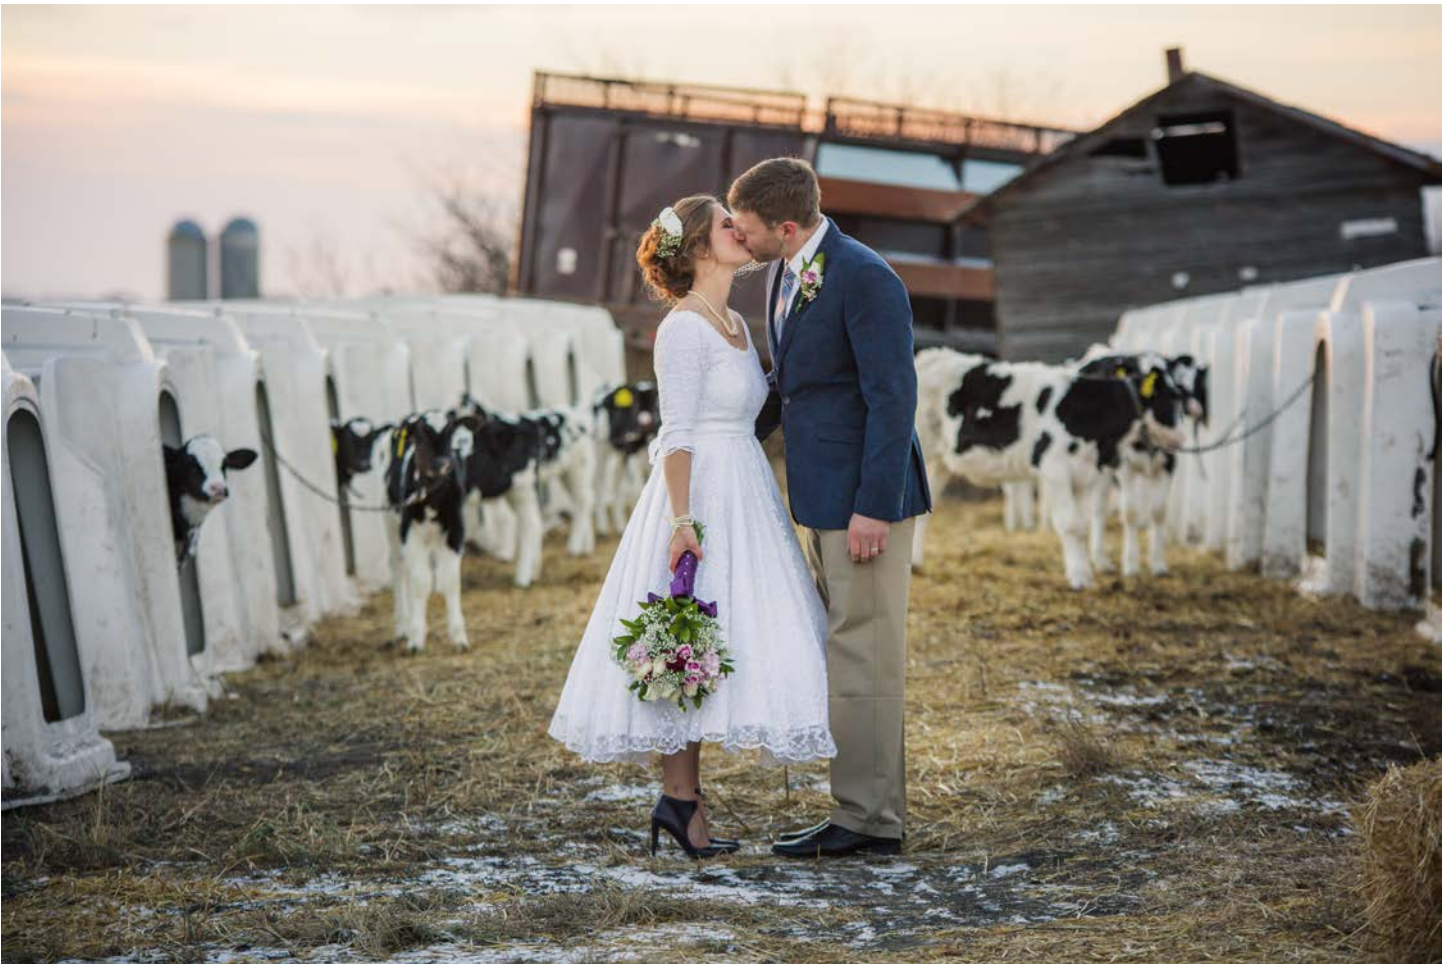

Details, details, details. As you can imagine, I have been to a lot of weddings and I have a lot of experience with the details. This might be your first time planning a wedding – and I want it to be a fun and positive time in your life – just know that you can count on me to help make that happen. I bring bobby pins, hairspray, and, I will help you adjust your dress to make sure there’s nothing standing in the way of perfect images. But, I will capture the most imperfect of images, too – the ones you didn’t even know you wanted, but I know you will love.

My Promise. I can’t promise to control the weather, the mosquitos or those little hiccups that happen on any wedding day. But I can promise that I will help you take it all in stride and minimize your stress. In fact, I have been known to put down my camera and help resolve many little things that have popped up on a wedding day shoot. That doesn’t mean we miss any of the important shots. It just means that you can count on me to be organized, efficient and very capable throughout the day. I promise to make you laugh and make your day fun and memorable. And then, I promise that you will enjoy reliving your day through amazing images.

Before You Choose: All packages include your engagement and wedding sessions and fully edited images with printing rights. If you don’t see a package below that fits your requirements, I am happy to work with you to design a custom package to suit individual needs. However, only full day coverage is available at my daily minimum of $3,500.00.

You choose when you would like my time (must be consecutive hours) with you to commence on your wedding day but to help, I have included suggested captures for each basic package.
